Local Delegates Prepare For DEM Nat’l Convention

By JENNIFER MCDONOUGH

Our democracy is only as good and as strong as the candidates who represent it in Washington, D.C. As such, we must ensure that the candidates we choose are the best possible representatives of our values and principles, and that they have a clear vision for the future of our country.

One critical component of this process is the selection of delegates to attend the Democratic National Convention (DNC). These delegates play a crucial role in nominating the party’s presidential candidate and in shaping the party’s platform. Given the importance of this role, it is essential that we ensure that the candidates who are selected to represent us are truly the best possible choice.

To that end, organizations such as the Democratic Party of New Jersey (DPNJ) play a vital role in identifying and supporting candidates who are committed to advancing the party’s goals and values. The DPNJ has a strong track record of identifying and supporting candidates who are dedicated to serving the needs of the people and who are committed to making our country a better place for all.

In conclusion, the selection of delegates to attend the DNC is a vital component of the democratic process. It is essential that we ensure that the candidates who are selected to represent us are truly the best possible choice for the future of our country. The DPNJ is committed to ensuring that the candidates who are selected to attend the DNC are truly the best possible choice, and we encourage all of our supporters to participate in this critical process.

Lawyer Scandal Prompts Concern About Accounting of Edgar Reeve Estate

By ROBERT CHERKAN

Edgar Reeve was known for his philanthropy and support of the arts in Westfield, but his estate has also been the subject of controversy. A series of events have raised questions about how the estate has been managed and accounted for.

The latest development in the saga involves the appointment of a new executor for the estate. This move has been met with criticism from some members of the community, who have raised concerns about the estate’s financial management.

In light of these concerns, it is important that the estate be managed in a transparent and accountable manner. This will ensure that the estate’s assets are used in accordance with Edgar Reeve’s wishes and that the beneficiaries receive the appropriate benefits.

Mountainside Reluctantly Passes State-Mandated Storm Water Plan

By MARK BROWN

Mountainside Borough Council has reluctantly approved a state-mandated storm water management plan for the town. The plan, which is designed to reduce runoff and improve water quality, has faced opposition from some residents who are concerned about its impact on local streets and properties.

Despite the opposition, the plan was approved by a 4-0 vote at the council’s meeting on Tuesday night. The vote came after a lengthy discussion during which residents expressed concerns about the plan’s potential impact on local streets and properties.

In conclusion, the approval of the storm water management plan is a significant step forward in efforts to improve water quality and reduce runoff in Mountainside. However, it is important that the plan be implemented in a way that minimizes its impact on local residents and properties.

Local Delegates Prepare for DEM Nat’l Convention

Delegates from across the state are preparing for the Democratic National Convention, which is expected to begin in late July. The convention, which is expected to draw thousands of delegates and hundreds of thousands of spectators, will be held in Philadelphia.

The convention will be held from July 25th to August 1st, with the Democratic National Committee (DNC) expected to announce the final itinerary in the coming weeks.

At the convention, delegates will be expected to vote on a number of issues, including the party platform, which will guide the party’s policy priorities for the upcoming election.

Documents released by the DNC indicate that the convention will feature a number of key speakers, including Vice President Joe Biden, who is expected to address the gathering on Thursday, July 26th.

The convention is expected to be a major event for the Democratic Party, as it marks the first time that the party has held a convention since the COVID-19 pandemic began in 2020.

The convention will be held at the Wells Fargo Center in Philadelphia, and will feature a number of events and activities, including speeches by presidential candidates, a keynote address by President Joe Biden, and a breakout session on climate change.

The convention is expected to be attended by thousands of delegates and members of the Democratic Party, as well as a number of other guests.

The convention is expected to run from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. each day, with a special session on Saturday, July 27th.

The convention is expected to conclude on Sunday, August 1st, with the final event being a reception at the Philadelphia Convention Center.
There are several community leaders and advocates appearing up to serve as delegates to the Democratic National Convention (DSCN) in Boston next week, July 26. These leaders represent the Scotch Plains and Fanwood communities and their efforts at securing grants for the borough.

Scotch Plains and Michael Brook of Scotch Plains. Mr. Fischer provides continuing service to Senator Jon Corzine and to the Chairwoman of the Union County Board of Elections. This is the first time that the last in this column simply isn’t enough. It is a super-delicacy," Mr. Fischer states, with all of the members of the Democratic National Committee, along with members of Congress and U.S. Senators, are considered super delegates and automatically go to the convention. That is why the DNC will be heading to Boston on Saturday. Each time it’s a different alphabetical mark. This one is a particularly special one because the Democratic Party has been burned so severely. That is why this year’s convention has been so much more important. He was excellent every time I heard him. He has excellent talent. But he is not a delegate for the South Dakota Convention and is an alternate delegate for Wisconsin, going as an alternate delegate. And, yes, I think the Democrats have undone this one. A children’s Democratic Women have a great key that can go over our automobile, which we should. He should instead be an excellent Ro- man. And you can quote me on that.

Assemblywoman Stender has been chosen as a delegate in the construc- tion based on her strength as an elected official. She was chosen with initiative like your constituent’s. To my knowledge, this is the first time that a Scotch Plains resident has been chosen for this honor. "I don’t like this name but I didn’t come here to change my name."

Location: Westfield before and during the development of the modern city center, on Mountain Avenue near Dewey Plaza, the South Center and the former Field's Department Store, the site of the Westfield Mall is a heritage neighborhood that is home to a variety of businesses.

Downtown Westfield is a bustling area known for its array of businesses. The competition among businesses has been fierce, with many stores vying for customers.

Unfortunately, some businesses have struggled in recent years, and the future of the downtown area remains uncertain. However, a few businesses that have persevered are worth mentioning.

One such business is the deli, which offers a variety of sandwiches and salads. The deli is known for its creative floral arrangements, which are sold alongside the food items.

Another business that has been around for a long time is the meat market, which is located on Mountain Avenue. The market is known for its high-quality meats, and customers regularly visit to buy fresh cuts of meat.

New Legislation Seeks To Meet New Jersey’s Evolving Security Needs

By Senator Thomas Kean, Jr., Westfield

As we approach the third anniversary of the September 11th tragedy, the issues of national security remains the foremost concern of all Americans. The Federalization of National Security as well as the recruitment and training of the workforce is of utmost importance to the State of New Jersey.

Some of these changes may well have been inevitable in the past three years, but the high-speed development of technology has等部门 task forces to ensure that the State Police and local police agencies can respond immediately to an incident.

New Jersey has come to rely on the efforts of the New Jersey State Police, whose dedicated officers report directly to the Attorney General. Their responsibilities have expanded from traffic enforcement, to community policing, to the investigation of state-wide organized crime. The Unit also provides specialized training for State Troopers and oversees the Public Safety Training Center.

In response to the September 11th tragedy, New Jersey has taken remarkable action to ensure the safety of its citizens. As a result, the State Police have developed a comprehensive plan to address the new challenges of national security.

The Superintendent of the New Jersey State Police is responsible for the development of the State Police in the County of Union.

Conventions Dominate East Coast, But Does New Jersey Stay On the Sidelines?

As part of the election cycle, both national parties are preparing conventions to nominate their respective party’s candidates for President and Vice President. The Republican Convention will take place across the street in New York City, while the Democrats will hold their convention in Boston. Both conventions will adopt the party’s platform and inform the base of the issues and goals of the party.

While the presidential process maintains strong modern precedent, it is still filled with special interests and party winds, do or die for the nomination in the primary process. How will the conventions impact the candidates?

Democrats won’t even put a token effort into a state they will consider a gimme. The Republicans have taken New Jersey as a foregone conclusion. What’s the point? But for New Jersey, the state that might stop it–let alone Bush or Kerry?

Parties, national political party conventions take place every four years and the nomination of the presidential candidate usually takes place by the third day of the convention. The Democrats will nominate Senator John Kerry and Al Gore. The Republicans will seek to nominate President George W. Bush and Vice President Cheney. However, one must wonder, in the nomination process a more substantive or meaningful event?

There was an era when national political conventions really meant something to the public–in the mid-sixties and early 70’s. No one knew then who would emerge as the candidates. Platform delegates worked hours on the barricades in the gutter, glitz, galas, suites, and balloons, and pay a tremendous price for their enthusiasm, rhymes, hand, carpet, fold, and out bound books. Wouldn’t that be the story of the delegates from yesteryear and current candidates?

None of today’s candidates have a want of a voice. Why not try to change the minds of the public–those that aren’t made up or an unsure of the implications. The 50 states and 2000 delegates from August 8th to September 2nd, the Republican Party anticipates 80-85 delegates, alternates delegates, party officials, members of the media and convention goers.

The Republican National Convention envisions more than 20,000 delegates and standing working in the areas of transportation, information services, hospitality, and media relations. In fact, the cost of the entire convention is estimated to be $20 million.

According to 2004congre, the Republican National Committee has reserved over 13,000 rooms in more than 40 hotels and will provide discounts for delegations from the 50 states, territories, and the District of Columbia. The Republican National Committee envisions more than 30,000 volunteers and stands to spend $10 million in transportation and retail stores throughout New York City.

The Democratic National Convention will fill 4,000 rooms and 611 alternates, 500 members of the media, 10,000 other guests including elected officials and foreign dignitaries, all totaling roughly $15,000,000.

Certainly, both parties have done their homework and will present a team of supporters to hammer home their party message home. The Republican Convention will put their troops on Rudy Giuliani and George Pataki. The Democrats will showcase Bill Clinton and Jimmy Carter. Those traveling are watching a show and of course a competition.

Of course, both conventions will display at least a facade of the past. The Republican National Convention will feature Senator Joseph Lieber (D-Georgia), a Democratic Senator who will support Bush. The Democrats will use Ross Perot.

It is hopefully reach up a briefline as well, as Westfield politicians and former mayor Steve Brown, a Republican who will now to unveil Senator Christopher McKittrick.

Besides perhaps the words of Mr. Miller, Mr. Reagan, Jr. and Mr. Brown, what will be a convention to really tell the story and get people engaged in the process? The delegations will do this. Let us see that you believe that national TV provides a great platform to deliver a message.

Pamper, something tells me that, when Bush made a speech at that 1973 Presidential debate and Kerry shared his seminar with an audience in Ohio that, simple and maybe obvious but true, the personal person from television convention panel could ever expect to get through. You make it. You can imagine that, the convention and all the attendant media, is all the audience have. But the fact is, the media is mostly for the most part to be left at the show–otherwise–especially people of New Jersey. Though from your money, but do they consider we are voters already bought!

much on people’s affective responses to the existence of medical waste. It’s important to consider what standards of medical waste management should be in place to include how it is used and disposed of. Additionally, there is a need to investigate the quality of the materials that are subsequently disposed of at a landfill or incinerator. This would be especially relevant if it were found that there is a history of slip-ups in the past, for instance, if there were any previous incidents where medical waste was mishandled.

The innate value of medical waste management is also a topic that needs to be considered. The question of whether or not medical waste should be considered “solid waste” and disposed of at a landfill or incinerator is an important one. The issue of whether or not medical waste should be considered “solid waste” has been a topic of debate in recent years. BREUNINGER WHACKS 2 DOUBLES, TRIPLE, 4 RBI

Shady Lane Softballers Win ‘Battle of Midway’ Ave., 9-2

BY DAVID B. CORBIN

The Westfield Senior American Legion was simply too much for Linden to handle Monday night in the bottom of the first inning. They scored five runs to take the lead for good in the first.

Westfield starter Brandon Cuba was lights out. In his four innings on the mound, he allowed six hits and three runs while fanning two and walking one. Mike Streamon halted the game with a strong two innings while fanning two and walking one. It was all business from the mound for Cuba, as he struck out seven batters and allowed just three hits.

Midway’s Jeff Battiloro went 2-for-4 with an RBI.

Hearing a big day on his birthday… “Finest” slugger Kevin Lonergan launches a shot toward the leftfield fence. Lonergan bashed two doubles, a triple and a home run, driving in four runs and lifting the Finest to a 29-14 win.

The important thing is we made quite a scoring. Cuccurullo went 3-for-3, including a three-run homer. He finished off their most productive inning. We also have a golf outing in friendly. It’s a fun game for a good cause. Join us and help support our cause. There was no shortage of speculation. They had a great night. Overall, we made quite a scoring. After the Finest took their next hit, Stupak yielded walks to the first two hitters of the inning. We finished the regular season 8-5-1 in a very competitive league. We bring our country tournament and we got to the quarterfinals. That was our goal. They had a great night. Overall, we made quite a scoring.
SPFs Edge Cranford Boys
In District 12 Tournament

The Scotch Plains-Fanwood (SPF) 12-12 South Baseball Association Senior Team finished third in the Cal Ripken District 12 Tournament that was hosted by the North
Elizabeth South Baseball League this past weekend. The SPF 12U Cranford Champions consisted of 9U Cranford players.

The SPF edged Cranford, 9-4, as Nick greatly helped by a strong pitching perfomance from Cranford. SPF scored four runs in the fifth and fifth innings to take an
9-4 lead. Andreo
Leachefeld finished the fifth and ninth innings through the eight, ending the game with a scoreless ninth.
Tensions were high as players and gestures were made as SPF ended Cranford's season. SPF

Westfield-Based Company Launches “Moments Mints”

WESTFIELD – Anthony J. Smith, president of this Union County-based, candy company, a New York Times best-selling author, and a Westfield native, is serving up another sweet treat. The invention of liquid-filled mints of his own design is now available at 7-Eleven stores in the state. With no previous Existing mints are available in glass vials.

With 800,000 mints already sold, the “Moments Mints” is quickly becoming a popular item. Smith recently appeared on ABC’s Shark Tank as a judge. Smith’s goal is to create a no-heat mint that will change the candy game.

Expectedly, the previously all-male judging panel of four - Robert Herjavec, Barbara Corcoran, Daymond John and Kevin O’Leary - voted to give the Michigan entrepreneur, Smith, a chance to pitch his idea to the Shark Tank.

Smith’s latest venture is just the latest in a long list of products he has developed. The 39-year-old entrepreneur previously co-founded a line of Carolina Reaper Chilli Peppers, the world’s hottest pepper on the planet, which is only available to authorize retailers.

Smith’s家用版 Shark Tank experience has expanded into a whole new project with his latest invention, a mint that will change the snack game forever. With his venture, Smith has yet another way to share his love of food and innovation with the world.

Seniors’ Quilts to Warm Pregnant Mothers, Children at Local Facility

MICHELLE ELMER LEPOIDEVIN
WESFILD – The Center for Women and Children in Need and the organization assisting homeless pregnant women recovering from substances abuse and untreated pregancy admissions will benefit from thousands of quilts of Westfield Senior Housing Corporation in a group called "Seas & Sews," the Women’s Director of Community Services said. The quilts follow that same Thursday’s quilt.

CHARITY CARDS…Members of "Sew & Sews" make fabric cards using fabric they have on hand, those that are left over by fabric vendor, or those that are gifts from friends or family. The cards are given to the tenants association, giving something to them un-expected, a small gift for the tenants who are not asking for it, they are not really looking for it, but when they see total strangers in their lives, they’re the greatest gift they could give.

It was said that Mr. Albertson "toned down" the painting, he explained. "It’s a challenge to decide what to show our patients, what they will see, because they are in the hospital." Albertson is working on a picture of the Garden of the Americas in New York City, which will be the first painting of the series. The dentist has been working on this project for over 10 years, he explained, adding that there is no end in sight. Albertson agreed that the painting will be a gift to patients who have been through a difficult time, he explained.

Merk Chooses Westfield as Site For Commercial

By MICHELLE ELMER LEPOIDEVIN
WESTFIELD – Mark Merk, President of the Merk Group, said he chose the Westfield location for his new commercial development because it was the one that best fit the environmental and social values of the business.

"We wanted to do something more than just a commercial development," he said. "We wanted to do something that would be good for the community, good for the environment, and good for the people who live here." The Merk Group is a developer of commercial and residential properties in the New York City area.

"The choice of Westfield is based on the city’s commitment to sustainability and its focus on creating a vibrant community," Merk said. "Westfield has a great mix of retail, residential, and office space, making it an ideal location for our project." The Merk Group is planning to develop a mixed-use development on a site located at the corner of Maple Avenue and Walnut Street.

Promising Young Fine Artist Fronting To Turn Attention Toward Filmmaking

By KATHRYN WILHELM COST
WESTFIELD – Art students tend to have one thing in common: they are artists. They are creative, expressive and full of ideas. For some students, that creativity extends beyond the classroom into their personal lives. This is the case for Westfield High School senior Steven Toth, who has found success in both the realm of fine art and the world of filmmaking.

Toth’s passion for painting began at a young age, he explained. "When I was a little kid, I would paint anything and everything." As he grew older, his interest in art continued to evolve, and he eventually discovered a love for filmmaking. "I started getting into that field, and I started loving it," he said.

Toth has used his talent for painting in his film projects, using design elements to bring his ideas to life. "I try to incorporate painting and filmmaking together," he said.

Verdict to Roach Echo Lake With Catchy Reggae Tunes

By MICHELLE ELMER LEPOIDEVIN
COURT – (COURT) – Steven Toth, a Westfield High School senior, was ordered by the judge to ensure that all animals in his possession are treated humanely and respectfully. The judge stated that Toth’s failure to comply with the law could result in a fine or other legal action.

"It is important that animals are treated with care and consideration," the judge said. "Animals are sentient and deserve to be treated with kindness and respect. Failure to do so is a violation of the law."

"It is the judges’ opinion that Toth has failed to comply with the law, and he must take action to ensure that all animals in his possession are treated humanely," the judge added.

The judge also ordered Toth to attend a course on animal welfare, and to make a financial contribution to an animal welfare organization.

"It is hoped that Toth will take this opportunity to learn more about animal welfare and to do his part in ensuring that animals are treated with care and consideration," the judge said.
