Geoffrey Ko of Westfield Earns Eagle Scout Rank

WESTFIELD – Boy Scout Troop No. 77, sponsored by the Vestry at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Westfield, honored Geoffrey Ko with the rank of Eagle Scout in a ceremony held on June 24. Geoffrey is the 81st scout to achieve the rank of Eagle, the highest rank available in Boy Scouting, since the troop's founding in 1935.

Geoffrey's Eagle Scout Leadership Service project, benefiting the Westfield Community Players (WCP), consisted of installing a white vinyl fence along the property line, landscaping to improve the curb appeal and renovating two outdoor signs.

He coordinated with Gail Smith, Director of Facilities at WCP, to begin work by removing the overgrown bushes and weeds to prepare the ground for the fence installation. So many volunteers came to help that all-around shrubs trimming and removal were done while the fence panels were put in place.

With professional services donated by Caffrey Tree and Landscape, and plants donated by Williams Nursery and Carolyn Kirkland, Geoffrey's project in the aspect of landscaping achieved more than originally planned. The "Exit Only" sign was sanded down and repainted to hang facing North Avenue, and a new "What's Playing" billboard was constructed to stand on the corner of North and Edgewood Avenues.

Thanks to a generous discount from Home Depot, donations of food and drinks from ShopRite, and materials from Westfield Lumber and Home Center, Geoffrey had surplus funds from his project to donate to the Westfield High School (WHS) Theatre Department and the WCP.

Geoffrey would like to thank his family, all who volunteered or donated to his project, as well as his Eagle Advisor, Dean Roth, and Troop No. 77 leaders for their encouragement and contributions.

Geoffrey is the son of Wei and Angela Ko of Westfield. Outside of Scouting, Geoffrey has performed in six WHS theater productions and earned the Paper Mill Playhouse Rising Star Award for Best Supporting Actor as King Charlemagne in Pippin.

He is a member of the WHS Class of 2013, Concert Choir and Wind Ensemble, the National Honor Society and the International Thespian Society. He will serve as a committee chair for the upcoming YMCA Model United Nations Conference, and is a corresponding secretary for the WHS chapter of the International Thespian Society.

Preventative Care, Checkups Key to Keeping Pets Healthy

WESTFIELD – Just as you see your doctor on a regular basis, it is important that your pet receives routine veterinary care. Your pet should receive a thorough physical exam from nose to tail at least once yearly for young pets and twice yearly for senior pets.

Comprehensive exams will assess your pet for both normal and abnormal findings, which may indicate potential health risks or underlying diseases. Your veterinarian should check weight, listen to your pet's heart and lungs, and assess their eyes, ears, mouth, skin, teeth and coat. As your pet ages, more frequent checkups or additional testing may be recommended since senior dogs and cats can develop chronic health problems, including arthritis, kidney, liver and heart disease.

A complete comprehensive health exam also will include laboratory testing. Testing will consist of fecal and urine analysis, heartworm and Lyme disease testing, as well as routine blood work. This testing is important because your pet often shows no outward signs of illness until the condition is far advanced.

Lastly, your comprehensive health exam should allow time for you to discuss recommended preventative care. Discussing diet, behavior, exercise patterns, routine vaccinations, monthly flea, tick and heartworm prevention, and at-home dental care are all important aspects of your pet's health.

Your pet's health care must always continue at home. Check your dog or cat for lumps, bumps, flakes or scabs. Observe your pet's eyes and ears for clarity, discharge or odor and monitor for any changes in your pet's eating or drinking habits.

If you have any concerns, contact your vet immediately or call Westfield Animal Hospital and make an appointment to have your pet examined by one of our veterinarians. Remember, your pet offers unconditional love and affection and becomes an additional member of the family. He or she deserves the very best health care.

Westfield Animal Hospital at 357 South Avenue, East, has recently gone under new management. Dr. Anthony Loomis and his fellow veterinarians at Westfield Animal Hospital will care for your dogs, cats, birds and exotics. New hours and updated services, including house calls and boarding, are available. Renovations to the hospital will be taking place this summer and are expected to be complete by late Fall 2012; however, the hospital will remain open for visits. Call today, (908) 233-6030, for a Free Exam for new patients!
