HOW SWEET IT IS!...This beautiful 1955 yellow Thunderbird, owned by Raymond Ranucci of Westfield, was displayed at last week's show. Mr. Ranucci purchased the T-Bird in Southern California 12 to 13 years ago. It took him three years to restore it. Very few vehicles can boast a speedometer which tops at 150 mph.

Officials Working On Combined Plan For Field Utilization

By PAUL J. PEYTON
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader
A meeting last Friday between town and school officials revealed that parks and fields in town are not always fully in use despite being booked. The two sides are continuing to hammer out plans for a combined reservation system designed to promote more efficient use of the town's fields. The issue of scheduling follows a recent public hearing on a proposal to add parking spaces to Tamaques Park to handle the large crowds of people who use the park during the peak spring and summer sports season.

Mr. Gottko was one of three people at last Friday's meeting. The others were Director of Recreation Glenn Burrell and Board of Education Secretary and Business Administrator Robert A. Berman.

While there may be no one on the ball fields, the Tamaques parking lot can be full due to persons using the tennis and basketball courts, the picnic area, parents and their children on the swings, joggers and bicyclists, Mr. Gottko confirmed.

Municipal and school officials have indicated the various soccer, baseball and adult softball leagues typically block out large periods of time for several months on town and school field reservation lists.

A total of 70 spaces has been proposed for the park, which presently offers around 100 parking stalls. The New England Village Tamaques Park Association, a group of property owners living near the park, has said coordinated scheduling of sports events could eliminate the current overflow of cars at the park.

"We started out saying, 'is there a parking problem (at Tamaques)?' And then we got into 'is there a utilization problem? Is there a scheduling conflict?'" Town Administrator Edward A. Gottko told the Town Council Tuesday.

"The bottom line is I can't tell you whether you need parking or not. People are saying it (Tamaques) is over utilized. Well, maybe it's over-booked," he continued.

As an example, the Town Administrator said field number 6 at Tamaques Park, where additional parking has been sought, is booked for the month of August.

The Westfield Leader was also informed that the Westfield High School girls' lacrosse program, a spring sport, and the fall girls' soccer program, will continue to hold their practices and games at Tamaques in lieu of the field behind Roosevelt Intermediate School due to the poor condition of the latter field. The field was only recently renovated.

Roosevelt was not available last fall because newly-planted sod had not grown in yet. Mr. Berman, who was not aware of that situation, said he will look into the matter. He said a number of the school fields are in need of at least some renovations.

In terms of paving at the park, Third Ward Councilman John J. Walsh has told The Leader he would like to resolve the issue by this fall.

"If Tamaques Park will be used in future years in the same way that it has been used this year, we need to

Ginger Hardwick to Leave School Board; Progress on Referendum Projects Revealed

By MICHELLE H. LePOIDEVIN
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

On June 29, a little over three months since Westfield Board of Education member Ginger Hardwick relinquished her vice presidency to Arlene Gardner, Ms. Hardwick declared her resignation from the board, effective Sunday, August 1.

Since the sudden death of her husband, First Amendment lawyer Steven L. Lapidus, in February due to surgery complications, Ms. Hardwick confided that times have been especially hard.

In her statement to the board she noted, "As most of you probably know, the past 4½ months have been difficult ones for me and my children. I'd like to thank everyone at this table and many sitting out there for your kindness and support."

Mr. Lapidus was a partner in the firm Robinson, Lapidus and Lavelli. He represented The Star-Ledger and The Times of Trenton.

In early June, Ms. Hardwick and her three children, Sarah, 10, Jake, 12, and Ben, 6, participated in the first annual Steve Lapidus Memorial Family Run for Fun, a community-wide event, which paid tribute to Mr. Lapidus while raising funds for college scholarships.

Ms. Hardwick will now pursue a career as a professor in a clinical program at Seton Hall Law School Center for Social Justice where she will focus on advocacy for the homeless.

"Like every board member I have served with, I have put a great deal of effort into this job, but what I put in cannot compare to what I got out of it — intellectual challenge, the opportunity to exchange ideas with so many bright, articulate and caring people, the chance to become truly involved in my community and to have an impact on the schools, which I feel are the centerpiece of community life," reflected Ms. Hardwick.

The daughter of former State Assemblyman and Assembly Speaker, Chuck Hardwick, has served on the school board since 1995.

From 1995 to 1996 and in 1999, she served on the Board/Staff Committee; Long Range Planning Committee from 1995 to 1998 and the Negotiations Committee from 1995 to 1996. From 1996 to 1999, she served as Chairwoman of Curriculum, Instruction and Programs Committee. She served on the Budget/Finance Committee from 1996 to 1998. In addition, she was the Liaison to the Parent-Teacher Legislative Committee and the Franklin Elementary School Parent-Teacher Organization and the Parent-Teacher Association.

Board President Darielle Walsh confirmed that the board is proactive in seeking a replacement to finish out the term for Ms. Hardwick, which was to end in 2001.

In other business, Board Secretary and Business Administrator, Robert A. Berman offered a report on the status of the projects involved in the $11.7-million bond referendum at the meeting.

New classrooms, technological infrastructure work and capital improvements were all included in the bond package, which passed overwhelmingly last December with a

DWC, Chamber Sign Joint Lease to Share New Office at Fleet Bank

By PAUL J. PEYTON
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

In an effort to better meet the needs of the Westfield business community, the Downtown Westfield Corporation (DWC) and the Westfield Area Chamber of Commerce have signed a lease for a combined office space in the Fleet Bank building in the downtown.

The five-year lease was signed June 23. The two entities are expected to move into their new headquarters by September 1.

"It's such a great location. We are right in the heart of the town. We really think this (the new location) is going to help (the DWC and Chamber operations)," said Michael LaPlace, Executive Director of the Downtown Westfield Corporation.

The two entities, which work in sync with each other on a number of downtown interests, will share reception space.

Among the added features of the second floor location are a large conference room, private offices, as well as the use of an elevator thus making the offices handicapped accessible. Neither the DWC nor the Chamber's current offices are accessible for persons with physical disabilities.

"Gaining a conference room for the Chamber is a big plus," explained Debbie Schmidt, Chamber Executive Director.

The new rent, which was not revealed, represents a combined monthly increase of $100, according to Mr. LaPlace. The new offices feature approximately 1,050 square feet.

Ms. Schmidt said the new offices will feature a joint reception area thus providing additional hours whereby someone will be manning the phones.

In addition to the new offices of the Chamber and DWC, Fleet Mortgage and a law office are also located on the same floor of the building on the corner of East Broad and Elm Streets. Fleet Bank and a travel agency are located on the ground floor.

"We think it (the new offices) will just present a much more professional appearance for Westfield," Mr.

LaPlace told The Westfield Leader.

He said DWC is considering placing one of the blue DWC flags in front of the bank as a guide to persons looking for the new offices.

"Anything we can do to let people know where we are would be a plus," explained Debbie Schmidt, Executive Director of the Chamber.

The lease agreement follows in the footsteps of last year's pact to form a joint promotions committee of the DWC and Chamber.

While the planning and budgeting on promotions is conducted by the DWC, the Chamber actually runs the promotional events which include the downtown street fairs, the holiday Welcome Home to Westfield seasonal campaign, the summertime classic car shows and the Sweet Sounds Downtown which showcases live jazz music at several locations.

"We (the DWC and Chamber) are going to have a one-stop information center," said Mr. LaPlace.

Businesses in town will have access to the new conference room as well as existing materials about the town and business community in-

Patricia Knodel, who served on the Mountainside Board of Education for 26 years, was honored by her former colleagues Monday with a special plaque commemorating her long service to the board.

"Mrs. Knodel has given our board a wealth of knowledge and experience, from which we have all learned so much," remarked Board President Patricia Taeschler, who presented the honor.

The commemorative plaque presented to Mrs. Knodel reads: "Presented to Patricia Knodel in recognition of your 26 years of dedicated service to the Mountainside Board of Education."

Several books will also be donated to the Deerfield Elementary School Library in her honor. Mrs. Knodel said she was very pleased about the book donations.

In other business, Chief School Administrator Dr. Gerard Schaller spoke about the most recent developments regarding school safety issues, as reported to him by Mountainside Police Chief James Debbie.

Chief Debbie's analysis of the building and grounds at Deerfield School revealed several security problems that invite unimpeded access to the school. Among the safety concerns cited were doors left ajar, the front door monitors left unsupervised and classroom telephones that cannot be used to make outside calls.

Dr. Schaller disagreed with some of these concerns.

He pointed out that the kitchen and gymnasium doors, although left ajar for deliveries or physical education classes, were always monitored by staff.

Speeding Tickets Jump Under Stepped Up Effort By Police Department

An enhanced speed enforcement program put into place earlier this year by the Westfield Police Department following the deaths of two pedestrians is beginning to realize its intended results, Police Chief Anthony J. Scutti said this week.

The program, launched in March, was aimed at slowing down drivers on Westfield's roads. Seventy-one-year-old Ellen Interdonato was killed while attempting to cross East Broad near St. Paul's Episcopal Church, while Anna Tkacova, 23, was fatally injured while attempting to cross the street near Temple Emanu-El. Several persons also have been struck by vehicles this year in the town which were not fatalities.

A memorandum from Chief Scutti to Town Administrator Edward A. Gottko compared the number of speeding and other moving violation summonses issued during March, April and May of this year with the same months in 1998.

The results demonstrated an increase of more than 70 percent in the number of citations issued, from 831 in March through May, 1998, to 1,418 in March through May, 1999.

"With the support of the municipal governing body and town residents, we announced that we would aggressively and strictly enforce speed limits, pedestrian laws and traffic infractions. The increase in moving violations issued underscores our achievement of that goal that we set in February," Chief Scutti stated.

In February, the Westfield Police Department, working with the B.R.A.K.E.S. group (Bicyclists, Runners and Kids Are Entitled to Safety), Mayor Thomas C. Jardim and members of the Town Council, announced a plan of enhanced traffic law enforcement, the goal of which was "to dramatically increase police presence in the central business district, school zones and other selected sites in a consistent manner to increase public safety."

Tuesday Deadline Set To Stay On Permit List For South Avenue Lot

The final deadline for persons seeking to remain on the reservation list for spaces at the South Avenue train station parking lot is this Tuesday, July 6, town officials have indicated.

As of yesterday, of the 1,191 letters mailed to persons on the current list, 159 have been returned through the Post Office as "undeliverable;" 567 persons have asked to stay on the list, 32 have requested removal of their requests for parking permits at the lot with another 433 persons failing to contact the town.

Anyone who has moved and thus may not have received the letter is asked to call the Town Clerk's Office at (908) 789-4033.

Communities to Hold Fireworks, Other Holiday Weekend Events

By KIM KINTER
Specially Written for The Westfield Leader

As the Fourth of July weekend approaches, several area communities are planning fireworks and special events.

Communities scheduled to host firework displays include Cranford, Mountainside, New Providence, Plainfield, Springfield, Summit and Union. There will be no fireworks in Westfield, Scotch Plains or Fanwood.

In Westfield, bring a lawn chair — early — for the town's annual patriotic band concert in Mindowaskin Park, starting at 8 p.m. tonight, July 1.

A special flag-raising ceremony conducted by the Sons of the American Revolution will kick off the event, to be followed by a selection of patriotic tunes performed by the Westfield Community Concert Band.

Individuals seeking fireworks and other events will have to travel to surrounding communities, however, since the band concert is traditionally the town's only official observance of the holiday.

In Cranford, a Sunday evening fireworks display at Nomahegan Park on Springfield Avenue, beginning at 9 p.m., will be the highlight of the township's annual day-long Fourth of July celebration.

Other festivities will include canoe races, a one-mile fun run, a bicycle decorating contest, and field games. Food and craft vendors will be set up at the park from 2 to 10 p.m. For additional information, please call the Recreation and Parks Department at (908) 709-7283.

In Mountainside, fireworks will be set off at dusk on Sunday at the field behind Deerfield Elementary School on Central Avenue. The annual display will be co-sponsored by the borough and the fire department.

vote of 2,800 to 1,033. Some of the improvements scheduled to be worked on this summer include lavatory renovations at Westfield High School; computer cabling and integration at Edison Intermediate; new windows, roof repair and cabling at Roosevelt Intermediate; classroom additions at Franklin Elementary; classroom additions and HVAC upgrade at McKinley Elementary and floor tile replacement at Tamaques Elementary. The roof repair at Roosevelt began on June 29, while roof repair at Jefferson commenced on June 28. The new library project for Wilson School, lavatory renovations for Washington Elementary, and classroom additions for McKinley School will be bid on this month by contractors. Lavatory renovations for Jefferson will be bid on in August. Dr. Foley revealed that the board received verbal confirmation on June 29 from the state to go ahead with the classroom additions for Franklin School. In the coming weeks, The Westfield Leader will offer separate articles featuring in-depth coverage on progress of the projects in each school within the district.

Speeding Tickets Jump Due To Stepped Up Police Effort

This has been accomplished, according to the plan, by strict enforcement of traffic safety laws on certain targeted streets, such as Boulevard, Central Avenue, Lawrence Avenue, Rahway Avenue and Dudley Avenue. Additionally, parking laws in the vicinity of school zones and in the central business district have been vigorously enforced. All of these efforts have supplemented the normal selective enforcement patrols on Westfield's streets. "We're very pleased with the results of the program thus far and of the hard work of the patrol officers," said Mayor Jardim. "We are particularly happy to see that the number of summonses issued overall declined from 684 in March to 373 in May. While it is still too early to tell, we believe that this decrease is actually the result of changed driver behaviors as opposed to any drop-off in enforcement." Police statistics between March and May indicated that Rahway Avenue, 151; and East Broad Street, 87, registered the highest number of speeding summonses followed by Lawrence Avenue, 59; West Broad Street, 48; Willow Grove Road, 48, and Dudley Avenue, 46.

Sarah Strohecker, co-founder of B.R.A.K.E.S. added that, "The results support the belief of the B.R.A.K.E.S. group that speed limits on certain streets are consistently violated." Third Ward Councilman Neil F. Sullivan, Jr., Chairman of the Public Safety Committee, commented that "the dramatic reduction in speeding violations indicates that drivers are responding to the enhanced enforcement. Though continued focus on the three E's — enforcement by the police, engineering to implement traffic calming and education to ensure that motorists and pedestrians know and obey traffic and safety rules, Westfield's roads will be safer for all the members of the community." In addition to increased police enforcement, two studies are being conducted by consulting firms for the town on traffic calming and pedestrian safety. Rahway Avenue has been designated for a pilot program on traffic calming. Traffic calming is a term used for methods that are utilized to slow traffic on potentially high-speed thoroughfares. These devices are not used at intersections that are controlled by traffic signals.

add some permanent parking to keep the park safe and accessible," he said. Councilman Walsh's comments were made prior to last Friday's meeting. He was not in attendance at Tuesday's council meeting. The sports leagues and even the varsity sports programs at Westfield High School factor in both tournaments and the possibility of cancellations due to adverse weather when making field reservations, according to both Mr. Gottko and Mr. Berman. "They put in these requests for blocks of time even before they know what their schedules are going to be, and even before they know how many people will sign up for the leagues," Mr. Gottko said. Mr. Berman said the school fields are often over utilized. He noted that adult leagues and Recreation Department programs often are waiting to use the fields right after a Westfield High School varsity team practice or game. He said the blocking of time is more a problem for spring sports, which must account for rain-outs. Fall sports typically play through adverse weather conditions. Also, during the Memorial Day weekend, the Westfield Cup soccer tournament, which encompasses all available fields in town, can create havoc if any of the varsity teams advance deep into county or state tournaments and, thus, needing the high school field for a practice or game.

"It's (the spring scheduling) very problematic," Mr. Berman said. The town Recreation Department sends out letters in the beginning of the year to the various sports leagues requesting reservations for town fields. The Board of Education has a similar system in place. "What we are trying to do right now is marry the two of them (Recreation Department and Board of Education scheduling systems)," explained Mr. Gottko. Another thing that is evident is that the sports leagues are experiencing growth in their membership, according to Mr. Burrell. Another problem the town will soon face is the loss of both Sycamore Field and Memorial Park due to major improvement projects. Work at Sycamore will begin this fall. The Recreation Commission is still reviewing a master plan for work at Memorial. Memorial Park's four baseball fields, two soccer fields and six tennis courts will be lost for a year during the reconstruction work. Mr. Gottko has encouraged residents with ideas about how to address the issue of utilization of town fields to contact him. The next step, he said, will be to match the actual sports schedules with the reservations. Mr. Gottko will update the council again at its Tuesday, August 3, conference meeting.

cluding demographic information from a three-, five- and 10-mile radius of downtown Westfield. The Quintillion Communication division of AT&T, that presently maintains a Downtown Directory of local businesses for the town on the Internet, will also be located in the new DWC and Chamber offices. Businesses in town which want to update their Web pages will have access to a computer work station to be set up in the new offices. A list of vacant retail and office space, including rent per square foot, is available along with recruiting packages for new businesses, dining and downtown business guides. Meanwhile, persons moving into town who visit the Chamber office receive a relocation package, which includes demographic information, a list of the Chamber's 215 members, downtown guides and parking information. The DWC, following its creation in 1996 by the Town Council, originally was located above The Westfield Leader offices on Elm Street, and is currently housed above the former Taylor Hardware on Elm Street. Taylor just recently went out of business after 80 years. The DWC runs the town's special improvement district. The Chamber, located above the Robert Treat Deli on Quimby Street, has been in its current office space for three years and in the same building since 1988. Prior to that, the Chamber was above the former John Franks store on Elm Street, currently occupied by The Gap, in office space now leased by Paine Webber.

enable teachers to lock classrooms from the inside in the event of an outside emergency, as well as a system for routing all visitors through the front office before allowing access to the rest of the school. Dr. Schaller will research the codes that govern these safety issues and report back to the board on his findings. The Chief School Administrator also reported on a two-day in-service training program held for teachers on June 22 and 23 in mathematics and crisis management, respectively. The crisis management session was presented by the Mountainside Police Department and covered topics such as bomb threats, searches and security measures, along with new drug terminology. Dr. Schaller said he would like to make this program available to parents and students, as well. Board member Sally Rivieccio raised the issue of parents coming to the school to talk with their child's teachers immediately before classes begin. Dr. Schaller agreed with Mrs. Rivieccio's observations that parents should not disrupt the morning schedule, as this is a very busy time for teachers and students alike. The board would prefer that parents, instead, make an appointment to see their child's teachers.

Dr. Schaller also expressed concern that a few students are arriving at school as early as 7:10 a.m. and are left unsupervised before any school staff arrives. He said he would like to have the 8:25 a.m. arrival time enforced to insure students' safety. Mrs. Taeschler reported that a recent forum on parental responsibilities was a great success. The forum covered parents' responsibilities for teaching their children to obey and respect school rules and social conduct. The Board President stated that she would like to see these issues revisited throughout the year, and urged a continued partnership between administration and parents. Mrs. Taeschler suggested that the district return to the policy of having students and parents sign a rules contract, which was a practice in prior years. Dr. Schaller reported that he is devising the 1999 District Goals, which will be presented to the board in a formal document at the next board meeting. He requested input from board members as to which objectives they think should be included. The main points of these goals will be to reinforce the Strategic Plan; develop and implement an ongoing communications network including administration, staff and parents; maximize the potential of the teaching staff and develop a plan to increase community involvement. A key issue for future discussion will be the consideration of a dress code. Dr. Schaller suggested the need to form a committee, which will review the matter and make a presentation to the board. Dr. Schaller suggested that input from clergy, parents and students, as well as psychologists and schools that have dress codes, would also be valuable. He said he hopes to receive a committee presentation no later than October. In other business, Dr. Schaller read the newly-devised job description for the School Police Resource Officer. The officer, who will be employed on school grounds three days per week, will provide security, report irregularities, receive complaints, perform criminal investigations, compose reports, detain violators such as trespassers and coordi-
