pitchers pitched underhand to batters who were allowed to request high or low pitches; a base on balls was earned after three, not four, balls; foul balls were not considered strikes; foul balls caught by the fielder in the air or on one bounce were outs; etc. Modern day attendees of vintage baseball games (or matches) will recognize the game as baseball, but they will be intrigued by the sometimes subtle differences and will be drawn to the more pastoral atmosphere created by men in 19th-century uniforms playing ball in an open, grassy field.

The exhibition match will be preceded by an approximately hour-long program, suitable for children and adults. This educational history program is scheduled to include the following:

Discussion of the evolution of baseball, beginning with the Knickerbocker Club and the codification of the rules of the New York Game;

Description of the first games ever played, at the Elysian Fields, Hoboken, NJ;

Discussion of the growth of baseball in New Jersey from the 1850s to the 1870s, focusing on Union County;

Rules, rule changes, the evolution of the baseball diamond, and 19th-century baseball strategy;

Amateurism and the rise of professional baseball players in the 1860s and 1870s;

Union County's entry in baseball's first Major League - the 1873 Elizabeth Resolutes;

Discussion and hands-on display of replica equipment;

Questions and Answers.

The exhibition and educational program will be held on the open grassy field up the hill from the flag pole in Echo Lake Park in Mountainside. The event is made possible in part by a grant from the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders' HEART Grant program.
