Mrs. Paul has been a member of the Garden Club since 1980 and a board member since 1982, serving as Flower Show Chairwoman in 1984 and President from 1987 to 1989. She has also served on many committees. The club is one of 125 associated garden clubs with more than 5,000 members throughout New Jersey.

She was in charge of "America the Beautiful," the Westfield club's 1999 flower show, which won the Patriotic Theme Award from the National Council of State Garden Clubs, as well as New Jersey's Tricolor, Creativity and Best Schedule Awards from the Garden Club of New Jersey. Mrs. Paul is also a national accredited flower show judge, a landscape design consultant and a gardening consultant.

Among the positions she has held with the state garden club are District Director, Recording Secretary, Chairwoman of Awards and Landscape Design School, editor of the News Leaf newsletter and First Vice President. She is also currently a board member of the National Garden Clubs, Inc.

Program on Historic Homes, Gardens Planned for Tonight

WESTFIELD - The Westfield Historic Preservation Commission will present a special program tonight, May 24, that will follow up on a meeting in March that explained what local property owners should know about historic preservation. The week of May 13 to 20 was designated as "Preservation Week in New Jersey."

Tonight's program, entitled "How to Make Your Historic House and Garden More Appealing," will take place in the Council Chambers of the Westfield Municipal Building, located at 425 East Broad Street, beginning at 8 p.m. Speakers will include Janet Foster, a historic preservation consultant and faculty member at Drew University, and Patricia Tratebas, a consultant in landscape and garden design and historic garden preservation.

According to Nancy Priest, Chairwoman of the Westfield Historic Preservation Commission, the program will cover such topics as architectural history, house colors and restoring an appropriate garden design.

"The commission is glad to sponsor this special program," Mrs. Priest explained, adding, "we hope the informative presentations we have planned will generate a lot of questions." She said it will enhance the program if attendees bring photographs of their property.

"The commission was extremely pleased with the positive response to our earlier program with Dorothy Guzzo, Deputy State Historic Preservation Officer and Administrator, New Jersey Historic Preservation Office, and we look forward to another successful public meeting," she said.
