SP Planning Board Reviews Broadway Housing Development; Hearing Will Continue in April

By FRED ROSSI

The Scotch Plains Planning Board received the first details of the long-delayed Broadway housing development on Monday night, and, despite some negative comments from local homeowners, the board said it hoped to finalize the plans without causing any more delays or animosity in the community. The hearing will be continued on the board’s next meeting on Monday, April 14.

The development, which will be located on the eastern edge of Scotch Plains Presbyterian Cemetery property, will be a residential, large-scale, mixed-use, multi-family housing project. It will include 52 single-family homes, ranging from 3,500 to 4,000 square feet, and 72 apartment units, ranging in size from 700 to 1,000 square feet. The project will also include a 250-space parking lot, and various community amenities.

The development was referred to the Planning Board and the Scotch Plains Planning Alliance (SPPA) for review and approval earlier this year. The SPPA is a joint effort between the Scotch Plains and Fanwood Planning Boards to ensure a uniform approach to development in the area.

The hearing will be continued on Monday night, and the developer will be asked to provide more details on the project’s impact on the surrounding area. The Planning Board will then vote on whether to approve the project.

The hearing will be continued on the board’s next meeting on Monday, April 14.

Mr. Roland, who was present for the hearing, said that he hoped the development would be a positive addition to the community. He also thanked the Planning Board for their continued support and said that he looked forward to the project’s successful completion.

Mountainside School Bd. Candidates Debate Budget and Beechwood

By JUDITH RUSCHE

Mountainside School Board candidates debated how to spend the budget and whether the Beechwood School project is still a priority at Tuesday's debate.

Mountainside School District teacher Linda Ensign-Adams, Democratic candidate for the Board of Education, and Republican incumbent Michael Marino, running for re-election, were asked the question about Beechwood.

Mr. Marino said the project itself is not ready to go but the building should be built as soon as possible.

Ms. Ensign-Adams said the project is ready to go.

The candidates also offered their opinions on the budget.

Ms. Ensign-Adams said a 10% cut is needed.

Mr. Marino said there is no need to cut the budget because Mountainside had 5% lower taxes in 2002.

Mr. Marino said the school is doing a lot of innovative things with technology.

Ms. Ensign-Adams said they need to do more because it is critical in today's society.

Mr. Marino said it is his goal to keep the property values high.

Ms. Ensign-Adams said a high property value is only helpful if the children in the schools receive a good education.

A second question asked the candidates to name three innovations that are hard to understand.

Ms. Ensign-Adams said first is the relationship between the budget and the Board of Education, second is the education system itself, and third is the relationship between the public and the board.

Mr. Marino said first is the relationship between the budget and the Board of Education, second is the education system itself, and third is the relationship between the public and the board.

The candidates also addressed how to ensure adequate funding.

Ms. Ensign-Adams said the board needs to ensure a budget that is flexible and that can be increased when necessary.

Mr. Marino said the board needs to ensure a budget that is flexible and that can be increased when necessary.

A third question asked the candidates to name three things you would change if you were in charge of the school district.

Ms. Ensign-Adams said first is technology, which is great but can be improved, second is the curriculum, which is outdated in some areas, and third is the Board of Education, which should be stricter.

Mr. Marino said first is technology, which is great but can be improved, second is the curriculum, which is outdated in some areas, and third is the Board of Education, which should be stricter.

The candidates also addressed how to ensure that students get a good education.

Ms. Ensign-Adams said the board needs to ensure that students get a good education, which includes good teachers, good curriculum, and good technology.

Mr. Marino said the board needs to ensure that students get a good education, which includes good teachers, good curriculum, and good technology.

Kean Questions Governor’s
Commitment to Seniors

TRENTON — Speaking before a group of senior citizens last week, Senator Thomas H. Kean, Jr. (R-21) accused the Governor of “playing politics” by repeatedly delaying legislation requiring tanning facilities to post written estimates to consumers, and a proposed measure regulating the type size in consumer literature.

“Among those pieces of legislation currently under consideration by the Senate by Mr. Kean,” Senator Jon A. Bramnick (R-21) of Westfield has been informed, “is a bill that would require tanning facilities to present consumers with estimates to consumers, and a proposed measure regulating the type size in consumer literature.”

Assemblyman Bramnick has announced that a “Make It Simple” Task Force has developed a new method that makes the process of medical insurance more easy to understand and to work with.

“Doctors and patients are already overwhelmed by the complexity of the insurance industry,” explained Assemblyman Bramnick. “This task force includes doctors, a representative of the insurance industry, and a representative of the medical community.”

Assemblyman Bramnick said that the task force is motivated by a desire to improve the medical system and to reduce the burden on doctors and patients.

“This task force will: develop a program that makes it easy for patients to understand their insurance coverage; develop a program that will help doctors to navigate the insurance maze; and develop a program that will make it easier for patients to understand their insurance coverage,” said Assemblyman Bramnick.

“Definitely, the members of the task form have a clear understanding,” he said. “We are working hard to make sure that our system works properly.”

CONSTRUCTION PROJECT IN SCOTT PLAINS

Elizabethtwon Water Company
Water Main Cleaning and Relining
www.atowater.com

Beginning the week of March 24 and continuing through November, CF Construction, a contractor for Elizabethtwon Water Company, will clean and line approximately 56,250 feet of water mains in the area east of Terrill Road and South of Route 22. Main cleaning and lining restores water mains, increases the flow of water and improves fire protection.

Elizabethtwon makes every effort to minimize any service disruptions. Before work begins, temporary service lines will be extended above ground and connected to your home or business at your meter. The temporary service lines will provide you with continuous water service while the work is being done.

Because the bypass hose is above ground, it can get heated up during hot weather. If you have not used your water for a period of four hours or more, it is recommended to run a faucet for 10 minutes prior to using your water. While the project is continuing, you are urged to keep a full pitcher of water in your refrigerator to ensure that you have plenty of cold water to drink when the weather gets hot. We want to assure you that even if it is warm, your water is still safe to drink.

Look for an advertisement in this paper to provide you with periodic updates on the project. If you have any questions or problems, please contact our construction inspector Tom Slaza at (908) 482-3241 or for general inquiries, please call our Customer Service Center at 1-800-722-1365.
If There Was A Place Where Walls Had Ears, It was 50 St. Elmo

The Westfield Leader began publishing in 1890. It celebrated 114 years in business this September. Through all these years in town, The Leader had only a few locations for its office. For more than 90 years, that home was on Elm Street. It was something special to many people of generations. It was special to us. If there ever was a place where the walls had ears, it was in Elm Street.

But now it is our dream filled with hope for the future as we emphasize our new location — effective April 1, 2003. The Leader adds a new home address, new vision in 251 North Avenue, West — The Train Station Plaza. As you read this, the last edition of The Westfield Leader and its predecessors of East Broad and Prospect Sts. published from 50 Elm, we move — just one block, same phone (908) 232-4407, same fax (908) 232-4407 and same e-mail press@westfieldleader.com.

We’ll have an official Open House Celebration the first day and part of our first edition from this Train Station Plaza. There’s parking! Just come to our Train Station Plaza on the north side.

We’ll have an official Open House Celebration anticipated to be at the end of April. Please come. Meanwhile, we’re in business there now. Stop in. The Elm Street home was the first to have electricity, the first to have running water. It is the building where the walls had ears. It is the building where the county and state offices are located. It is the building where the public can be located in a building that is now the local home of the local newspaper.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Sumner Believes that Academics, Arts and Athletics Equal Good Schools

To the Editor: Mr. Sumner prefers that schools focus on academics, arts and athletics. As a father, I agree with Mr. Sumner that education is key to the development of a child. However, I believe that athletics are also important.

In my opinion, athletics teach children valuable life lessons such as teamwork, perseverance, and sportsmanship. These values are essential for success in both personal and professional lives. Additionally, athletics provide a healthy outlet for physical activity and stress relief.

I believe that schools should prioritize a well-rounded education that includes both academics and athletics. Mr. Sumner’s perspective is valid, but I argue that athletics are equally important.

Westfield Resident Speaks Out On $250,000 Malpractice Cap

On March 18, President Bush proposed a $250,000 malpractice cap on damages to plaintiffs in medical malpractice lawsuits. This proposal is a radical and extreme right-wing measure that would have devastating effects on the quality of medical care in this country.

Medical malpractice litigation is a complex and difficult area of law that requires specialized knowledge and expertise. The proposed $250,000 cap would significantly reduce the incentive for physicians to report medical errors, leading to a decrease in the quality of medical care.

Furthermore, the proposed cap would have a disproportionate impact on low-income patients and minorities, who are already at a disadvantage in the healthcare system. It would also make it more difficult for patients to receive the justice they deserve.

I urge lawmakers to reject this extreme proposal and instead focus on more reasonable and effective solutions to the problem of medical malpractice litigation.

Sincerely,

Raider Baseball Boys Expect Strong Pitching for Success

BY PAT LEVONE

Newark, NJ — Expecting to play competitive ball this year, the Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School baseball team has high hopes for its strongest unit in many years, the pitching staff. The team, which went 14-10 last year and tied for the top of the Union Group 2 East division, returns 10 players and three of last year's four All-GVC players.

The team has returned four of its starting pitchers from last year. Back will be juniors Nick Whelan and Kyle Baker, and seniors Andrew Romano and Jeremy Ladd. The team also returns two key relievers, seniors Tim Barilla and Vinny Riello.

“They’re good but they’re definitely the most likely candidates to start for us if they’re healthy,” said Coach John Shineman.

The returning pitchers will be joined this year by four new players. One of the newcomers is two-year starting catcher, senior Mike Carmody, who batted .212 with 30 hits and 13 RBIs.

Senior Andrew Romano returned to the starting rotation this year. Romano batted .188 with 21 hits and 19 RBIs.

“We have our number one, two, three, four and five slots,” Shineman said.

Senior Mike Carmody received All-State honors last season as a catcher, and Shineman is counting on him to be the anchor behind the plate this year.

“We have a good offensive line-up and defensively we’re going to be very solid,” Shineman said.

With three returning seniors in the infield - juniors Matt Haggerty, Brian Homm and Tim Barilla - the team expects to have a strong defensive unit.

“With three seniors back, we’re set defensively,” Shineman said.

The team also returns two returning outfielders, senior Mike Carmody and junior John Shineman.

“We do return some solid players in the outfield, but we’re going to have to see if they can hold their own, I believe we are going to have a strong and experienced pitching staff,” Shineman said.

The team’s starting rotation will be Romano, Whelan and Baker.

“We only had two scrimmages so far, but our starting rotation is ready,” Shineman said.

Senior Tim Barilla led off both games by allowing one hit. Kyle Baker led off the second game with a two-hit shutout.

Senior Kyle Baker is also returning to the outfield with senior Andrew Romano and junior Kyle Baker or Zazzili playing left.

“We have some kids back that have some experience,” Shineman said.

“We have to expect two or three juniors to get some time and experience,” Shineman said.

Junior Danny Klimowicz is the top returning player, but he’s out for the season with an ankle injury.

“Hopefully, with the experience back, we’ll pick up from where we left off last year and we’ll be able to carry over the success of our state tournament,” Shineman said.

“We want to go out to the tournament to show what we can do on the va-...

Westfield Hoops Girls Reach Tri-County League Finals

The Westfield 14 girls’ travel basketball team beat Dayton, 47-22, to win the 14 Girls Tri-County League championship last week. The Lady Huskies will now compete in the Section 2A-2A State Tournament this weekend.

Westfield used a balanced scoring attack to make the Tri-County (South) Skyline NJYCA Div. I title, with 12, 11,10,10 and 8 rebounds. Ross Berman, Krista Oberlander, Driscoll, Miranda Burt and Lauren Berman each had six points, seven rebounds and three assists. Oberlander had a weighback, 12 rebounds, Kosney World, Danielle Immonen, and Alivia Oberlander all had five each. Burt had three rebounds and three points. Clare Berman had a 10 points, seven rebounds.

Although a bit disappointed by the close game, Westfield coach Jeannine Murphy said she could make the long shot by keeping the pressure on the opponent. The Lady Huskies will now move on to the championship game by one-point.

Oils Improve in Salon 2003

Contemporary artists in recent years have become less adventurous and more stagnant in their work. Pioneers in the past like Willem de Kooning, Jackson Pollock, and Mark Rothko had innovative and influential ideas. In Salon 2003 at the Watchung Arts Center, the best oils featured a limited color-saturated palette, a composition that is consistent with the period. It is a shame that the best oils in Salon 2003 did not achieve the high standard of the previous year's Salon.

Young, Mitchell Brown, and Robert Gruber provided the most prominent and accessible works. "The Best of the Westfield Art Association's 79th Annual Members' SALON 2003" was an enthusiastic meeting point for the public.

The Hunted: Not Much of a Catch

In "The Hunted" by Michael A. Goldberg, a group of hunters on the warpath have ainteractive experience with a man who is just because he is the warpath. The warpath and the man are interwoven to create a dramatic story. The warpath is not just a mere figure of speech, but rather a living, breathing entity. The man is a living entity, but he is also a warpath. The warpath is the man, and the man is the warpath.

"The Hunted" by Michael A. Goldberg is an interactive experience that is not just a mere figure of speech, but rather a living, breathing entity. The man and the warpath are interwoven to create a dramatic story. The man is a living entity, but he is also a warpath. The warpath is the man, and the man is the warpath.

MAKING BACH PROUD...On March 9 at the Westfield Bach Festival, baritone Carle Schwab-Brody performed an inspired recital. At the Festival, James Novak, a baritone, sang "The Hours" by Benjamin Britten. Novak sang with great poise and grace, and his performance was a joy to hear. The audience loved his interpretation of the piece.

How Two Residents Are Waging Their Own Wars Over Governor’s Attempt To Cut Arts Funding

By KERRENE SPILLMAN ORTIS
FOXWOOD—Agency moderates John lenski and Susan van der Elsken are in a cold war over the arts. lenski is a big supporter of the arts, while van der Elsken is a vocal critic who is opposed to any arts funding. Their conflict has become a public debate over the past few months, with both sides engaging in a political battle to win over the public and decision-makers. The war is fought on multiple fronts, including budget proposals and public statements. While the Governor has proposed cuts to arts funding, both lenski and van der Elsken have been working to mobilize supporters and present their arguments to the public. As the debate continues, the stakes remain high, with implications for the future of the arts in the state.
