Trailside Museum Gives Earth Week Schedule

MOUNTAINSIDE—The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders will offer special programming with the theme "Water, Water Everywhere" at Trailside Nature and Science Center in Mountainside during Earth Awareness Week, Friday, March 25, to Saturday, April 2.
Various family programs, drop-off workshops for children, nature hikes in the Watchung Reservation and teacher training workshops will celebrate water as a precious resource.
The reservation is a 2,060-acre preserve set aside to provide families with an opportunity to have fun while learning about the environment. Set within the Arthur Kill and Lower Raritan watersheds, the reservation is home to many streams, lakes and ponds that provide a wetland sanctuary for a variety of flora and fauna.
Highlighting the Earth Awareness celebration is Holly Jantz, an Americorps Watershed Ambassador, who will present "Wandering Watershed" for families with children ages 5 and older, on Monday, March 28, from 1:30 to 3 p.m.
She will use an enviroscape model, a hands-on replica of a watershed, to identify various types of pollutants that affect area waterways. After learning about the enviroscape, participants will play "The Long Haul" to understand the importance of instant access to clean water.
Registration is required and the fee is $4 per person for Union County residents and $5 per person for out-of-county participants.
EcoArt for families with children ages four and older will be offered tomorrow, Friday, March 25. Families may drop in between 10 a.m. and noon to use their artistic abilities and create crafts from recycled objects.
Registration is not required and the fee is $4 per child for Union County residents and $5 for out-of-county children.
Trailside will host two drop-off programs for students in first through fifth grades.
"Backyard Wildlife Habitat," to be offered on March 25 from 1:30 to 3 p.m., will allow students to discover how Trailside's new pond attracts local wildlife. Participants will enhance the area by planting iris, evergreens and berry bushes in and around the pond to provide shelter and food for animals. When the work is complete, participants will enjoy hot cocoa and marshmallows around a warm campfire.

"Wet-N-Wild Animals," offered on Monday, March 28, from 3:30 to 4:45 p.m., investigates the diversity of insects, fish, frogs and reptiles that live in the wetlands of the Watchung Reservation. Children will learn how adaptations such as gills, fins and camouflage help these animals survive.
Students will help feed Trailside's painted turtles and meet its resident water snake. Registration is required for each drop-off program and the fee is $8 per person for Union County residents and $10 per person for out-of-county participants.
Culminating Earth Awareness Week activities, on April 2 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., will be a teacher-training workshop, "Project Wet," which will provide the tools, resources and lessons for teachers to use in the classroom to teach future leaders about the importance and value of water in everyday life.
More than 90 interdisciplinary activities and lessons, teacher-tested and classroom ready for K-12 students, are included in the Project Wet curriculum activity guide. Lessons in the guide are correlated to the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards. Participants will receive six New Jersey Department of Education professional development credits. The fee is $25 per person and includes a curriculum guide.
For a complete listing of Earth Awareness Week workshops or for information on upcoming programs and special events, please call (908) 789-3670.
Trailside Nature and Science Center is located at 452 New Providence Road in Mountainside and is a facility of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation.
